MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dear Chamber Members,

First and foremost I would like to THANK everyone that was involved helping at the Hundo and Bailey Day, donating countless hours of volunteering and providing extraordinary effort to make this big event a great success.

Even though the events went smooth and without any major incidents, we were understaffed by a bunch. In order to improve the situation for next year's event, the board is conducting a survey and hopes to get feedback from all members. As most of the annual funding for our Chamber comes from Bailey Day we are committed to keep this special day going, however we need to figure out a way to get more help from everyone. While our memories are fresh we will discuss and brainstorm critical issues at our next general meeting.

I heard from several businesses that the Open Flag is bringing in more people and if anyone is looking to add a flag we still have a few extra ones.

In conjunction with the Conifer Chamber we have formed a new committee called 285 Tourism, and we are very excited to be part of it. If you have a business or general interest in helping promote the entire corridor, you are welcome to join the meetings held bi-weekly on Wednesdays at different locations. The committee is currently promoting events and things to do, hopes to bring more people to the area. A future plan includes an area map with all attractions along the 285 corridor. Please get involved, this is going to be a fun committee. Email me at info@aspenpeakcellars.com if you like to be part of it.

I hope everyone is having a busy and lucrative summer.

Until next month,

Marcel Flukiger

FITNESS TIP

"I have no energy." "I'm tired and exhausted"
Does this sound familiar? What can you do about it?
First things first. Are you really drinking enough water? Not coffee, not pop, not fruit juices, but water?
We have always heard "8 eight ounce glasses of water a day."
What this says is that a 200 lb person should consume the same amount of water as a 100 lb person. Does this make sense?
Most people drink about 8-16 ounces a day. Fruits, vegetables and other foods do contribute, but plain old water is most important to gauge how much you actually drink.
Recommendations should be minimally half your weight in ounces. Add for altitude and climate. Yes, you will be going to the bathroom more often, but in time, that will slow down as you become more sufficiently hydrated.
Headaches and dizziness may be alleviated or eliminated just by doing this.
Water is required for all aspects of body functions.
Next is to eat some sort of lean protein every 3 hours or so with your meals. This helps to increase metabolism and spare the use of muscle (protein) as energy. If you do not eat enough protein throughout the day, you will literally cannibalize muscle for energy, thus decreasing metabolism. This may also help you to lose body fat.
Treat yourself well and you will have more consistent energy throughout the day.

The First United States Flag

The First Official United States Flag: This 13-Star Flag became the Official United States Flag on June14th, 1777 and is the result of the congressional action that took place on that date. Much evidence exists pointing to Congressman Francis Hopkinson as the person responsible for its design. The only President to serve under this flag was George Washington (1789-1797). This Flag was to last for a period of 18 years. Each star and stripe represented a Colony of which there were thirteen, united nearly one year earlier by the Declaration of Independence. The thirteen Colonies are listed below with the date that each ratified the Constitution and became a State.

(1st) Delaware December 7th, 1787 (2nd) Pennsylvania December 12th,1787 (3rd) New Jersey December18th, 1787 (4th) Georgia January 2nd, 1788

(5th) Connecticut January 9th, 1788 (6th) Massachusetts February 6th, 1788 (7th) Maryland April 28th, 1788 (8th) South Carolina May 23rd, 1788

(9th) New Hampshire June 21st, 1788 (10th) Virginia June 25th, 1788 (11th) New York July 25th, 1788 (12th) North Carolina November 21st, 1789
