Lanesboro, MN 55949

9am - 5pm; 11am-4pm

Jennie Dieterman, 5074672437

skillsschool@eagle-bluff.org

In this two-day workshop we will explore more advanced mosaic techniques, materials and ideas. Delving into Andamento (the LINE), which is king in the advanced mosaic teachings. Concepts of color theory and mosaic history will be covered.

You will be asked to bring an idea/plan for a larger mosaic project, which we will discuss prior to the workshop. It could be something for your outdoor garden, a piece of furniture or an image you want to work on for your home. The workshop will give you a start towards completing a larger piece that you will be proud to own and share. Some possible project ideas ... mailbox, house number, birdhouse, gazing ball, etc.

Two weeks prior to the workshop Deb will contact you to discuss your project and both of you can be prepared to make the most of your workshop time together.

Note: A suggested prerequisite for this class is the Mosaic Basics class. Class size is limited to 8. Please bring your design idea, suitable substrate, an open mind and a BIG Smile! Warning: Mosaic Art may be addictive; your life will not be the same!

Stewardship, Faith and Community Decision-Making

Luther College, Valders Hall of Science Room 362

7:00 p.m.

Karen Martin-Schramm, 5633822131

karen.martinschramm@gmail.com

Susan Hendershot Guy, Executive Director of Iowa Interfaith Power and Light, will present, "Stewardship, Faith and Community Decision-Making: How Consumer-Owned Utilities Can Reflect Member Values and Priorities," Monday, November 27, at 7:00 p.m. at Luther College, Valders Hall of Science Room 362.

Her presentation is part of a Decorah Power Learning Series designed to investigate the opportunities and challenges involved in a Decorah municipal electric utility—a locally owned, city utility that would provide electricity services in the same way it provides water and sewer services. With the support of the City Council, local citizens group Decorah Power is conducting a feasibility study with privately-raised funds. The study is expected to be completed before the end of the year. For more information about Decorah Power see www.decorahpower.org

Holiday Themed Glass Bloc Mosaics

Eagle Bluff

28097 Goodview Drive

Lanesboro, MN 55949

9am-5pm; 11am-4pm

Jennie Dieterman, 5074672437

skillsschool@eagle-bluff.org

In this two-day workshop we will be working on a fun project using special materials to create a holiday theme glass on Glass Bloc. These Blocs can be used as a vase centerpiece or be lit from within for a beautiful stained glass effect. The process will be explained at the beginning of class with a brief power point as well as a handout for later reference. In addition, we will explore a few advanced mosaic techniques, materials and ideas.

You are asked to bring a simple idea/design, consisting of (2) designs approximately 8x8 inches. These "cartoons" should be simple, like you would find in a child's coloring book. There will be several options available the day of class.

Note: Class size is limited to 10. Please bring your (2) designs, approximately 8x8 inches, an open mind and a BIG smile! Warning: Mosaic Art may be addictive; your life will not be the same!

This virtual presentation, "Microgrids, Storage, and Cybersecurity at the Community Level," will feature Matthew Backes, Research Engineer at Lincoln Lab, MIT.

The presentation is part of a Decorah Power Learning Series designed to investigate the opportunities and challenges involved in a Decorah municipal electric utility—a locally owned, city utility that would provide electricity services in the same way it provides water and sewer services. With the support of the City Council, local citizens group Decorah Power is conducting a feasibility study with privately-raised funds. The study is expected to be completed before the end of the year. For more information about Decorah Power see www.decorahpower.org
