

Additional Comments Regarding the Indiana Community Center Renovations

- Yes, I strongly support the renovations.
The Museum is a popular tourist stop and the library is used quite a bit by local residents.
- I think this is long overdue.
- I think the library is an important asset to our community, and it deserves to have the opportunity to thrive in a safe, attractive environment.
- This building is in the heart of our community and needs to be renovated to help attract people to our downtown area.
- The building is where many children had their first exposure to reading and enjoying books. The building if structurally sound should be retained. If torn down the current building setbacks may prohibit the same size being built. The museum is an integral part of the building and adds to the community by way of visitors.
- The building is beyond repair and is not comparable to today's technology.
- Without them the building may have to be condemned.
- Common areas of engagement, especially for enrichment, are becoming more and more rare. As the world becomes more and more electronically connected, our relationships become more and more shallow. Personal contact, around a core of education and the arts, is a glue that continues to make Indiana vibrant and of consequence.
- I absolutely support this effort! I use the library frequently and feel it is a major community asset for various reasons, not the least of which it is situated on our historic main street and makes the corner very beautiful and tourist friendly. The library is more than a library in our community – it's a public meeting place too.
- Having their own parking lot/area would definitely be an asset to the facility.
- There needs to be a new library and community center built complete with free parking. Not a million dollar renovation. The current facility is not easily accessible by those with disabilities. The current library is cramped with no room to expand.
- It plays an important part of the community, so yes, I support this.
- The library is a very valuable asset that should be kept in town.
- Building should be torn down. Everything I hear tells me that there are more problems than a million dollars will polish. Additionally, perhaps when the building is torn down, 9th Street can be straightened out!
- Absolutely!
- I feel that Indiana's library and surrounding libraries should be working together and pooling their resources to create a new, large, centrally located library. All these miniscule libraries are pointless and cannot properly be equipped to develop and support a love of learning and reading for all library go-ers.
