Boulder City: Then and Now

Boulder City is a beautiful high oasis in the desert (elevation 2500 ft.) with green lawns and many clean, tree-shaded streets overlooking man-made Lake Mead and the Lake Mead National Recreation Area. The city is 5 miles from Lake Mead, 8 miles from the Mike O'Callaghan-Pat Tillman Memorial Bridge and Hoover Dam, and 21 miles south of Las Vegas, the "Entertainment Capital of the World."

The City of Boulder City is known as the city that housed over 4,000 workers during the construction of Hoover Dam, which lasted from 1931 to 1935. Boulder City is still home to some of the original Dam workers, fondly called the "31ers", and their families. The City was supervised and regulated by the Bureau of Reclamation and all land in and around the City was owned by the federal government.

In 1958, the federal government passed the Boulder City Act and established an Independent Municipal Government, the City of Boulder City. Under this act, the federal government turned over the existing home site (approximately 33 square miles of land), and the utility system to residents. The City Charter (approved by the residents) prohibits gaming which makes Boulder City unique as the only city in Nevada where gaming is illegal.

Boulder City's present population of 15,302 provides a quiet, small-town atmosphere found nowhere else in Southern Nevada. More importantly, it offers a welcome contrast and a dramatic alternative to the often frantic Las Vegas lifestyle.

The community takes great pride in its historic past and abounds with cultural opportunities. It has a state-of-the-art library and a wealth of interesting and unique shops located in it's historic downtown district along Nevada Way. Boulder City also sponsors numerous Special Events and Festivals. For instance, the annual Art in the Park and Spring Jamboree celebrations are recognized as the foremost art exhibitions in the Las Vegas Metropolitan area.

A very extensive network of parks provides visitors with many recreational opportunities as varied as soccer, baseball, motocross, horseback riding, model airplane flying, car and boat racing, BMX competitions, golf, hiking, off-road biking, fishing, waterskiing, diving, shooting clubs, ATVs and ziplining.

Within Boulder City there are 71 acres of landscaped park and plaza areas, 36 miles of hiking and mountain bike trails and year-round swimming, racquetball, shuffleboard, tennis and basketball courts (indoor and outdoor), picnic tables, lighted grass athletic fields and kiddie parks. There are two municipal golf courses – an 18-hole course and a new 27-hole course. There are art galleries and specialty shops, along with quaint sidewalk dining in the booming Historic District downtown.

The Boulder City Municipal Airport features daily flights to the Grand Canyon and also skydiving. For a good hike check out the River Mountain Trailhead off Highway 93 or the Railroad Tunnel Trail located at Lakeshore Drive near the Lake Mead Visitor Center. The River Mountain

Loop Trail is a 37 mile paved trail for bikes, horses, joggers and walkers. Or simply enjoy a brisk bike ride along the well marked, nearby paths.

Hoover Dam

Early in the 20th century, both spring and summer runoff, fed mostly by snowpack in the highest Rocky Mountains, caused massive destruction by floods along the 1,400-mile-long Colorado River and eroded millions of tons of valuable topsoil for the farms and ranches along its banks. In drier years, the Colorado's flow slowed to almost a trickle, destroying crops and livestock.

After a series of studies on how to harness the power of this river, the federal government passed the Boulder Canyon Project Act in 1928, just weeks after the election of Herbert Hoover. This authorized construction of a dam and canal to control flooding and supply water to the regions of California, Nevada and Arizona.

Thousands of American workers (unemployed as a result of the nation's stock market collapse in 1929) packed up and headed West for a job building the Boulder Dam (as it was known until 1947) in the Black Canyon, on the Arizona and Nevada border.

Before the dam could be built, the workers had to divert the wild Colorado River far away from the new construction site. They blasted tunnels right through the canyon walls and the Colorado River gushed through these diversion tunnels for the next five years while more than 5,000 men toiled in the dry, harsh canyon bottom. They sometimes worked in temperatures above 120 degrees in the shade, for a day's wage of $4. Officially, 96 people died building the dam (none are actually buried in the dam, despite a legend to the contrary).

The dam, dedicated by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in September 1935, was completed in less than five years – ahead of schedule and under budget. The Bureau of Reclamation started conducting tours through the dam and power plant in 1937. Today, close to one million visitors a year tour the dam.

No other politician was as instrumental in the successful completion of this project than Herbert Hoover. A dozen years later, President Harry S. Truman signed Public Law 43, restoring the name of Hoover Dam.

The actual cost of the dam, the All-American Canal, the town of Boulder City, highways, railroads and other work projects, was $165 million. The dam itself had a final price tag of nearly $60 million.

Hoover Dam is the second highest dam in the whole country and the 18th highest in the world. It is 660 feet thick at its base – as big as two football fields end to end. There is enough concrete (4.5 million cubic yards) in the dam to build a two-lane road from Seattle, WA to Miami, FL. The dam is 726 feet tall, almost 200 feet taller than the Washington Monument. The reservoir, Lake Mead, has a capacity of 1.24 trillion cubic feet.

During peak periods of electrical demand, enough water runs through the generators to fill 15 average-size swimming pools (20,000 gallons each) in one second. Hoover Dam's delivery system provides water to more than 18 million people in Arizona, Nevada and California.

MORE INFORMATION:

Hoover Dam is located just 30 miles southeast of Las Vegas on US Highway 93, right at the Nevada-Arizona border. The Dam tour center opens at 9 a.m. and closes at 5 p.m. (Pacific Time) daily, except for Thanksgiving and Christmas. The visitors' center opens at 8:30 a.m.

Recreational Activities

A Desert area 2,500 feet above sea level doesn't usually evoke thoughts of rugged outdoor sports like mountain biking, nor does it bring to mind relaxing on the banks of a fresh water lake where fish abound.

These two fun activities are but a small sampling of the many recreational pastimes available to visitors in Boulder City.

When it comes to recreation and outdoor activities, the residents of Boulder City do it all. In addition to the water sports available at nearby Lake Mead, the town is able to boast 36 miles of world-class mountain bike trails at Bootleg Canyon, just minutes away from any home in Boulder City. In September 2001, the International Mountain Biking Association named Bootleg Canyon an "EPIC Trail System," one of only 18 trails in the world with this distinction. While Bootleg Canyon brings thrills to mountain bikers, it is also a place of beauty for those who use the trails for walking, running and hiking.

Practically right in Boulder City's backyard, the sprawling Lake Mead National Recreation Area currently receives up to 10 million visitors annually. This amount of visitors makes it the most visited National Recreation Area in the United States.

Residents of Boulder City enjoy a wide variety of activities such as boating, camping, hiking, swimming, and year-round fishing in a setting of rugged mountains, desert washes, sheer cliffs and massive rock formations.

Best known for water recreation, Lake Mead is a top-rated destination for scuba diving, snorkeling, water skiing, sailboats, sailboards, boating and houseboating, to name just a few. While the current drought has affected some areas drastically, Lake Mead really has not changed much.

It has become even more interesting. Only twice in its history has the lake's level been as low. The chalky white "ring" is an interesting and stark contrast to the clear, deep blue water of the lake.

Hiking in the hills outside of Boulder City can be a rewarding experience for those who dare to explore.

Bighorn sheep, mule deer, coyotes, kit foxes and bobcats are often seen in the mountains and valleys surrounding Lake Mead. Numerous scenic trails lead to such places as abandoned mines, ancient Native-American encampments and villages, and hideouts of some of the wild West's most notorious villains.

For those interested in soccer, baseball, softball, fishing, model boat sailing, BMX racing or skateboarding, the 80+ acres of transformed desert area that offers each and every one of these leisure interests is Boulder City's Veterans' Memorial Park. There is the 3.5-acre fishing pond, stocked with catfish in the summer and trout in the winter. Water from the fishing pond flows over a rock stream to the tranquil model boat pond. To the south of the ponds are two regulation-size soccer fields and to the south of the soccer fields are four ball fields.

Adjacent to Veterans' Memorial Park is the Boulder Creek Golf Club, which opened in January of 2003. There is also Boulder City Municipal Golf Course, located just across Buchanan Boulevard. Both courses have been recipients of Vegas Golfer Magazine's Fairway Awards. In 2004, Boulder City Municipal Golf Course received a Fairway Award in the category of "Best Bargain Course." 2004 was the third year in a row this course received this award.

In 2004, Boulder Creek Golf Club received "Best Par 4, Desert Hawk #9," from the staff writers of the Vegas Golfer Magazine and "Best Bargain Course," voted by the magazine readers. The magazine stated, "Boulder Creek – a winner last year in the 'Best New Course' category, chalks up another award as one of the most affordable courses, proving that a beautifully maintained design in Vegas needn't cost a car payment to play. For private play, Boulder City is home to the splendid Cascata Golf Course.

Because of the variety of recreational activities Boulder City has to offer, it will take more than one weekend to enjoy it all. Come visit the town to see first hand the bounty of pleasures within the borders of this green oasis.

Day Trips & Area Hiking Trails

RED ROCK CANYON

Red Rock Canyon is located approximately 40 miles west of Boulder City on Charleston Boulevard (also shown as Highway 159 on some maps). Spectacular desert cliffs, buttes and dramatic rock formations offer visitors a unique perspective of nature as well as the effects of erosion on petrified sand dunes. To the west, mountains rise to a colorful escarpment, formed along a fault zone with peaks over 8,000 feet, including huge cliffs and ravines composed of bands of gray, white and red rock, all heavily eroded. Wildlife you may encounter includes roadrunners, red-tailed hawks, lizards, mice and squirrels, along with herds of wild burros, descendants of animals used by miners early this century. There is a 13-mile one-way scenic drive within the park boundaries. Red Rock Vista affords the best overall view of the cliffs. Entry fee is $5 per vehicle. No camping is available.

VALLEY OF FIRE

Valley of Fire State Park, 65 miles north of Boulder City, is the Nevada State Park system's first park. The valley derives its name from the massive red sandstone formations and the stark beauty of the Mojave Desert, and features 3,000-year old Native American petroglyphs and petrified wood. Popular activities include camping, hiking, and picnicking. The park is open year-round and offers a full-scale visitor center with detailed exhibits. The Valley of Fire makes for excellent auto touring with an outstanding network of roads allowing easy access to many features. The park is best accessed from the west entrance, off of Exit 75 on I15. The scenic road twists and turns for 32 miles through the park.

GRAND CANYON WEST

Only 2.5 hours from Boulder City, Grand Canyon West offers breathtaking panoramic experiences at the Grand Canyon's western rim. Owned by the Hualapai Tribe, Grand Canyon West is home to authentic attractions including The Skywalk glass bridge, Indian Village, Guano Point and The Hualapai Ranch. The Skywalk opened in spring 2007, and visitors are able to walk on the first-ever cantilever shaped glass bridge that suspends more than 4,000 feet above the Colorado River.

Public Art and Boulder City License Plate

Public Art Scape in the Historic District

Boulder City offers the wanderer a pleasant, artful stroll through the Historic District. You'll enjoy some beautiful, colorful hand-painted murals depicting the history of our historic town's creation, as well as professional, life-sized sculptures of all types, both privately-owned and City-owned.

Boulder City Public Art Scape is a unique outdoor sculpture exhibit. It hosts a variety of local artwork, introducing visitors to several artistic medias.

The unique artwork is exhibited throughout downtown Boulder City on an annually rotating basis, expressing the community's recognition of the arts. Each unique piece of sculpture is for sale at the end of its one year display. Twenty-five percent of the sale helps fund future Art Scape Exhibits.

City-owned sculptures were commissioned by the City Council to tell the story of Boulder City and its rich history in an artistic manner for the public to enjoy and learn.

A walking tour map is provided at the Chamber of Commerce office. All of the public art is also highlighted on the informational kiosks located on the main corners in the Historic District.

Boulder City Specialty License Plate

Show your pride in Boulder City and display a stunning picture of the Hoover Dam on your vehicle. The Boulder City Plate is available at any Nevada Department of Motor Vehicles. As it is a specialty plate, initially you will pay $61 in addition to the regular registration fees. Then $35 per year thereafter. A portion of this fee is returned to our community for promotion of this grand City. Please consider advertising Boulder City in a very unique way... from your vehicle. You will be helping our local economy in a couple ways that will surely make a difference.
