5:30—7:30 PM

Broken Bow Middle School Auditorium—FREE!

Please join the Broken Bow Chamber Education Committee for the "Creating an Engaged Board" workshop with Josh Erickson from Team Concepts on November 9th at 5:30 PM in the Broken Bow Middle School Auditorium—admission is free!

Humans experience cyclical patterns of behavior that make balance difficult to achieve. Influenced by the inevitable chaos of everyday life, these patterns have the potential to either plunge your board or team into social turmoil, or transform it into a streamlined powerhouse. A leader who is willing to tackle these cycles head-on with deliberate intent is already on the winning path. The key to efficiently navigating these cyclical patterns lies in understanding and managing them, rather than ignoring or trying to conquer them.

Josh Erickson is a master team builder, serial entrepreneur and Gallup-Certified Strengths Coach. For the last 19 years, he has been impacting teams: businesses, high schools, colleges, and non-profits of all levels. In addition to implementing proven methods to his own ventures, companies such as FedEx, Howard County Medical Center, SHRM, and the University of Nebraska have partnered with Josh when they have wanted to increase employee engagement, team collaboration, and team leadership. Industry leaders have called him a hands-on practitioner and implementer with a dynamic and engaging presentation style. Josh Erickson will empower your organization to profit emotionally, professionally, and financially.
