PAYTON CULBERTSON

Payton was generous, accepting of everyone, clever and so funny. I loved everything about him, even our arguments were entertaining, he always had such lavish reasons for everything he did. Payton was always giving and knew that even after his life was over he still wanted to give. He was always wanting to show Jesus to others and he touched so many lives, our family is better for having him in it for our short time together.

He hid his pain from everyone till the very end. If you or a loved one is struggling with suicidal thoughts and tendencies, PLEASE get help. Don't try to face this on your own. There is hope and healing, and there are many who will journey through this trial with you.

Call the National Suicide Prevention Hotline at 1-800-273-TALK (8255) at any time day or night 24/7, to talk to someone who understands. Or go online at www.suicidepreventionlifeline.org for more information and help.
