

Mark Johnson

Mark Johnson, serves as a Senior Special Agent within the Kansas Bureau of Investigation. A native of Omaha, Nebraska, Mark moved to Kansas in 1994 and began a career in law enforcement in 2001 as a patrol officer with the Garden City Police Department. In 2019, Mark joined the Kansas Bureau of Investigation where he is responsible for the collection and analysis of evidence to contribute to the arrest and prosecution of persons suspected of criminal activities. Mark's duties as a Special Agent encompass a wide range of criminal investigations, including general criminal investigations, vice and narcotic investigations, child sex crimes, gang crimes, and criminal intelligence. In addition to these duties, he is also responsible for cybercrime investigations. This includes investigating crimes such as ransomware, network intrusion, email compromise, denial of service attacks, and financial cases with connections to cryptocurrency.

During his 22-year career in law enforcement, Mark has worked on many high-profile cases but considers the development of cyber crime fighting units dedicated to combating these crimes making a positive impact in our communities, as his proudest professional achievements. Mark and his wife, have three children together and have been actively involved in their community.
