Ambassadors Commended for Outstanding Volunteer Service

VALDOSTA, Ga. —The Valdosta-Lowndes County Chamber honored 43 Chamber Ambassadors and their employers at a reception Tuesday. Three Ambassadors were recognized and honored for five years of dedicated volunteerism.

Jerry Kozuch, South Georgia Vein Centers, Lyndi Soles, Lamar Advertising, and Lane Sayre, Eye Associates of South GA, all served five years on the Ambassadors Committee, donating countless hours of time welcoming new businesses to Valdosta-Lowndes County and assisting with Chamber functions and events.

Ambassadors Committee Chair Vickie Godwin, Commercial Banking Company, thanked the volunteers for their dedication and commitment, “The business community and the Chamber appreciate your support. You give the ‘personal touch’ to the Chamber.”

Ambassadors are professionals from local businesses who serve as the public relations arm of the Chamber by participating in ribbon cuttings, ground breakings, member crushers, Leading Business of the Week presentations and other social events. Ambassadors have volunteered more than 1,300 hours this year.

In addition to the vital role they play as Chamber Representatives, they are also encouraged to introduce themselves and their businesses to the members they visit which provide additional networking opportunities. The Chamber’s Ambassadors can be recognized by their green jackets which symbolize prosperity, something they wish for every business.

For more information on becoming an Ambassador, contact the Chamber at 229-247-8100.

The Chamber honored Lyndi Soles, Layne Sayre and Jerry Kozuch for their exceptional volunteer service at the Ambassadors Reception on Tuesday.
