Author's Mindset Conference: Learn to Speak and Reach Your Readers

Residence Inn by Marriot Avondale

11465 W Hilton Way

Avondale, AZ 85392

08:30 AM - 05:30 PM MST

Sean Buvala, 623.226.8326

staff@smalltoothdog.com

A one-day "spring training" conference for book authors and illustrators, "Author Mindset: Reach Out and Connect," will be offered in Avondale, Arizona, on Saturday, March 21, 2020. Both local and national speakers will be presenting. Registration includes resources and meals. The workshop will be held at the new Residence Inn, 11465 W Hilton Way in Avondale, on Saturday, March 21, 2020. Registration (which includes materials, lunch, and snacks) is required. Learn more at azindieauthors.com.

The days when an author of a book could write a book and vanish into their walled garden of solitude while their books "just sold" are long gone. At the "Author's Mindset Workshop," the Small-Tooth-Dog Publishing group presents a series of speakers and trainers that help the published or want-to-be published authors with the mindset and the tools they need for speaking in public with eager readers and fans. With speakers from a variety of U.S. locations, this one-day event features interactive learning that will provide take-action steps to be more successful as an author.

The focus at this comfortable, casual retreat is on learning and there is no "selling from the platform" at this event. Leading the gathering is Avondale-based Sean Buvala, who is an author, storyteller, and publisher. Speakers also include author and corporate coach Laura Packer from Minnesota and Lee Wind from California, author, and director of marketing for the Independent Book Publishers Association.

"Some authors are somewhat terrified of connecting with readers, but publishing a book now requires authors and illustrators to be in a relationship with readers. We're looking to create an annual event that deals less with the 'how' to publish a book and more with the mindset, or way of thinking, that authors and illustrators need to have to be successful and satisfied with their books. Publishing is a tough business, and it's easy to get overwhelmed or disillusioned." says Sean Buvala, the publisher at The Small-Tooth-Dog Publishing Group. "Helping authors reach out with confidence and skill to their readers is the goal of this first conference. Frankly, connected authors sell more books. We're about teaching and not selling at this event, so we hope people come ready to be active participants."

The "elevator speech" is dead and your networking "commercial" won't work in the real world. In their place, you need a pile of well-crafted, time-adjustable stories of your work and purpose, each ready to be matched to the right people and the correct media, at the perfect time.*

In this low-theory, high-activity workshop, you'll learn why you need to know the difference between anecdotes and stories. You'll know when to use which in social media. You'll experience your memories triggered to find your stories. Finally, be guided in the process to outline, craft and share one of your newly-created stories with another person. You'll leave with customized and immediately useful content along with suggestions to adapt your story's content for various social media outlets.

Email marketing is always one of those things that just seemingly gets left behind. Most common, business say they don't like getting all those emails so why should they be sending them? The fact is, consumers do want to receive them, the key is making sure you are producing relevant content that keeps them engaged. Most email marketing campaigns fail because either the consumer didn't sign up for the email or it wasn't crafted well. In this class, we will cover both along with tips on getting customers to opt-in to your program and getting to know your ideal customer. In addition, we will discuss content strategies and how to keep your clients engaged!
