Central Texas Research & Innovation Symposium

Texas A&M University-Central Texas
1001 Leadership Place
Killeen, TX 76549

09:00 AM - 03:00 PM CST

Gene Lutz,
glutz@trideum.com

The Central Texas Research & Innovation Symposium brings together leaders from academia, industry, defense, workforce development, and economic development to explore how research and innovation are shaping the future of Central Texas and beyond.

Centered around the theme, “From Research to Real-World Impact: Securing, Scaling, and Accelerating Innovation,” this one-day symposium will highlight emerging technologies, groundbreaking research, workforce initiatives, and collaborative partnerships that are driving both national defense priorities and regional economic growth.

Attendees will hear from researchers, technology leaders, innovators, educators, startups, and defense partners as they discuss topics including artificial intelligence, cybersecurity, advanced manufacturing, data engineering, workforce development, and the future of innovation in Central Texas.

The symposium is designed to do more than showcase ideas. It is intended to spark meaningful conversations, strengthen partnerships, and create opportunities for collaboration between universities, businesses, government organizations, and community leaders.

Whether you are involved in research, technology, education, economic development, entrepreneurship, or workforce training, this event offers a unique opportunity to connect with others who are helping shape the future of innovation in our region.

Join us this Fall at Texas A&M University–Central Texas as we work together to build a stronger, smarter, and more connected Central Texas innovation ecosystem.
