Sustainability for business is about responding to those market shifts to increase competitive positioning by integrating sustainability into preexisting business considerations. For businesses to formulate a difference and provide direction, as a clear image of the preferred future, or a force that provides meaning and purpose, we must engage and energize our employee and stakeholders. Thus, Sustainability Business Consulting has created a sustainability for business workshop focused on collaborating how to activate a sustainable economic (profit), environment (planet), and social (people) transformation creating a new organizational culture.*
